

Introduction

Our SMART personality assessment is based on the widely recognized Big Five Factor Theory, and we've conducted thorough research to ensure it's comprehensive and up-to-date. Our assessment is carefully crafted using the latest scientific knowledge, so you can trust that you're getting an accurate evaluation of individual's personality traits.

How to read this report

It's important to remember that personality traits exist on a spectrum and that everyone has a unique blend of traits. It is also important to note that personality traits are not fixed and can change over time. It's important to remember that being sociable does not necessarily make a person more successful or likeable, and that introverted traits can also be valuable in certain situations. Being highly agreeable, mindful, receptive to new things, and temperamental does not necessarily make a person better or worse than those who score lower on these dimensions. It's important to recognize and appreciate the strengths of all personality types.
